To my patients, colleagues, and friends:

It is with mixed emotions that I announce my impending retirement from the practice of medicine. I plan to cease evaluating new patients or established patients with new problems as of June 30, 2014, and will not schedule any surgeries past June 30, 2014. I will continue to care for those patients currently being treated through August 2014.

This decision has been a most difficult one as it has been my privilege and an honor to have treated the tens of thousands of patients who have visited me for advice and treatment over the past thirty seven years. Practicing orthopaedic surgery has been my passion for more than forty years and it will be difficult to step back from this life, which has always been exciting, challenging, and extremely gratifying. I certainly will miss the people who come to see me as well as my colleagues, who have helped me treat people to the best of our abilities, with care, compassion, skill, and technical advances.

I will never be able to thank the patients for their trust, loyalty, and their friendship, as well as my staff and hospital personnel for all of their assistance in providing for the patients. I am also indebted to my colleagues for their confidence in me to participate in the health care of their patients, and many of their own family members.

I am proud to have been a founder of Fair Oaks Orthopaedics, and feel that we have a strong group of physicians who will continue to care for you in a compassionate and skilled manner. You can become more familiar with my partners by reading their bios on our website at fairoaksortho.com. Medical records are available for my partners to help continue care for any chronic conditions or to reference for any acute problems in the future.

I wish all of my patients good health and all the best in the years ahead.

Sincerely,

Brent R. Ain, MD
